Community Art Gallery Opens to Warm Reception at Bell Tower Park

Article by Nina Anderson

The official opening of the new Community Art Gallery at Bell Tower Park was a celebration of local talent, community spirit, and artistic expression on October 3, 2025. Residents gathered to admire a variety of artwork now on display in the Clubhouse Annex/Office Area, all created by Bell Tower Park residents.

Artist Pamela Slaughenhaupt

Curated by Marsha Wulpi, with the assistance of Marian Fuller, the Bell Tower Park gallery showcases an impressive selection of resident artwork. From landscapes and pet portraits to bold abstracts, the exhibit highlights the diverse creative talents found within the Bell Tower Park community.

Adding to the excitement, Marian Fuller donated an original abstract piece titled "Bell Tower," which was raffled off to a lucky winner!

Several of the featured artists were on hand during the opening to meet guests, share insights about their work, and discuss their creative processes. Each piece in the gallery is labeled with the artist's name and contact information, allowing interested parties to contact the artists directly for potential purchase inquiries. Residents enjoyed light refreshments, generously provided by the Social Committee, while they mingled and explored the exhibit.

The Community Art Gallery is a testament to the vibrant and creative spirit of Bell Tower Park. All residents and visitors are encouraged to stop by, enjoy the artwork, and support the talented individuals who help make the community a more colorful place.

Everyone who lives in Bell Tower Park can participate and contribute to the gallery, as the collection will be changed periodically. Stop by to view the work that is currently on display, and think about becoming part of a future exhibit! The Amenities section of the Bell Tower Park POA website has information on how YOUR ARTWORK can be part of a future display!
