Paint and Sip Night 2 at BTP

Due to the overwhelming interest and success at the February Bell Tower Park Paint & Sip Night, the Social Committee hosted a second Paint and Sip night on March 31st in the clubhouse. The cost of the class included everything one needed to create a tropical landscape painting, including easels, water cups, canvas, and all painting supplies. Nina Anderson, a Bell Tower Park resident and former art teacher, instructed both of the classes with a step-by-step process of how to paint with acrylics.

The event was a great success, and participants are looking forward to more of these events in the future which will include seasonal and holiday images.

While basic steps were given on how to create the tropical landscape, residents were given choices to make their paintings unique. The artists decided if they wanted their paintings to be done in a landscape or portrait orientation. They could decide the number of trees, the types of trees, bushes, grasses, clouds, and the layout of those items. Did they want a large or small sun? Did they want birds flying or a boat in the water? All these details were chose by the individual artist.
