

Website Seminar Well Received

Fourteen interested residents were in attendance last Thursday evening (Nov. 6th) to get an overview of the new Bell Tower Park POA Website. This was in the BTP Clubhouse, using the big screen TV there for display.

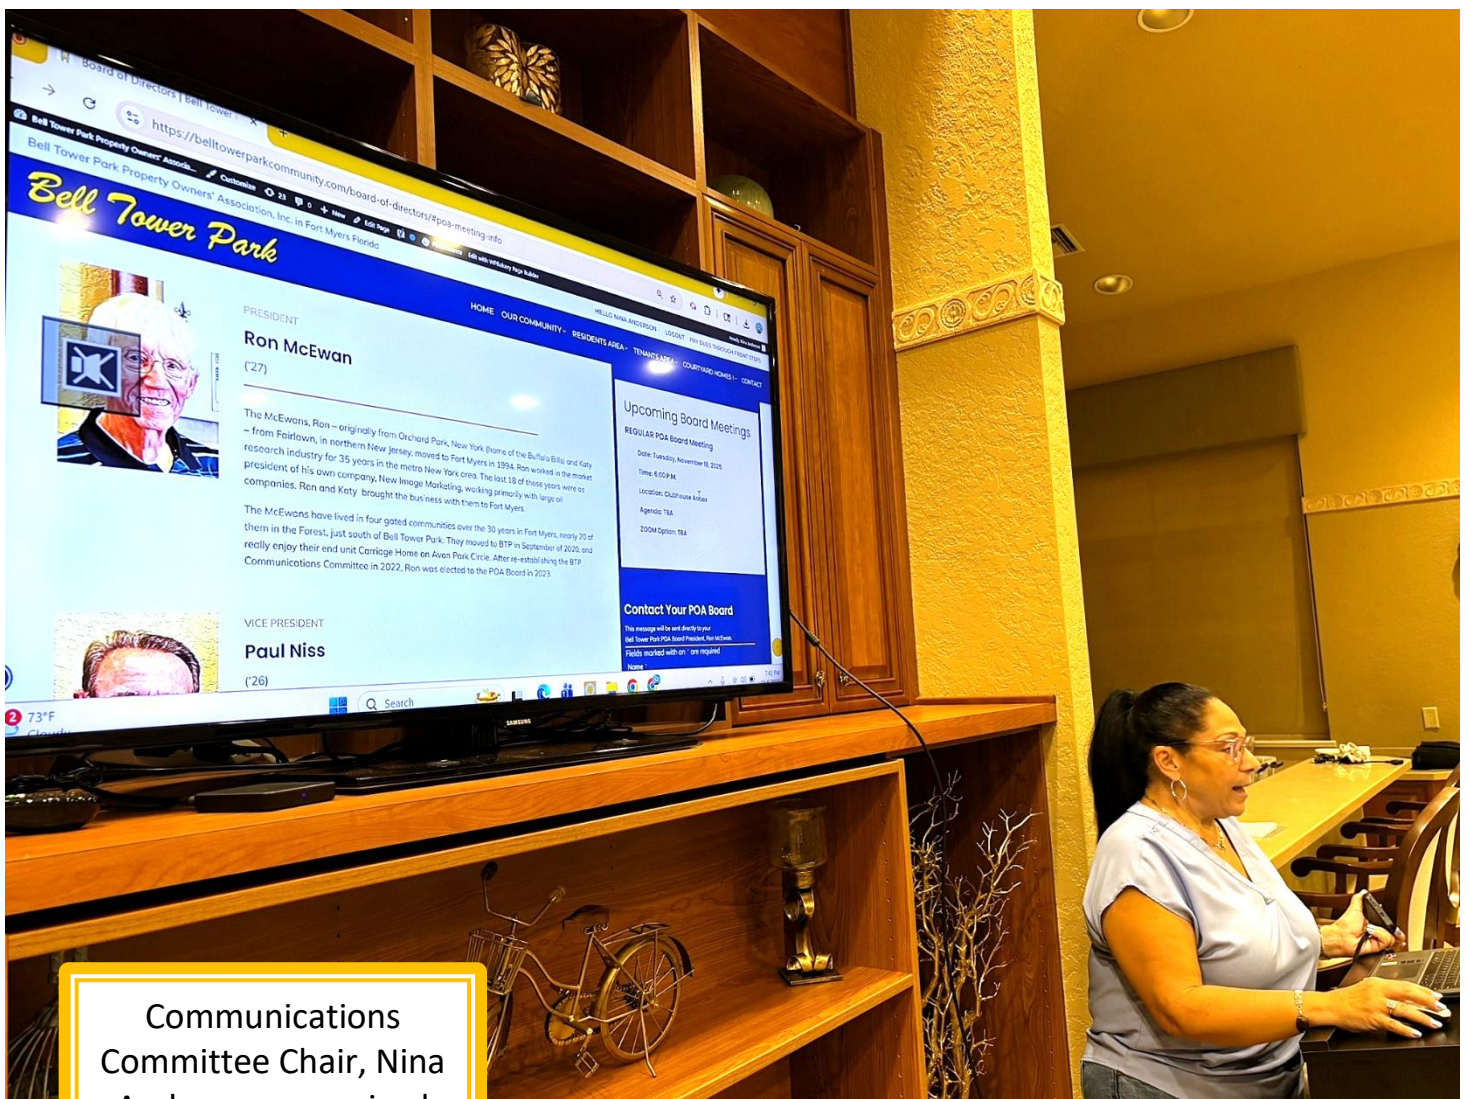

After an hour-long tour of the site's content and navigation, many good questions were asked and answered. One question led to further troubleshooting of display issues on smaller devices such as tablets and smartphones. Our website design company, RGB Internet Systems based in Naples made some adjustments the next day to solve the problem.

One of many features mentioned was the ability to reach other residents by use of the "Resident Directory". Besides searching by first name, last name, or address, you can even locate someone by the name of their pet – if the person sought has added that pet's name to their individual profile. Features such as this can augment bringing our community closer together into more of a "small town" atmosphere.

A video summary for those unable to attend is being planned. When available it will be posted as a link on the website.

Communications Committee Chair, Nina Anderson, organized and led the event, assisted by Committee member John Fuller.
